Part II DETAILED ACTION

This office action is in response to applicant's amendment filed on October 1, 2004.

The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. Claims 40-42 stand rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Rhee (US Patent No. 6,148,835).

Rhee shows and discloses a canopy shelter comprising, conventional, a plurality of telescoping legs (10), a slider member (31) slidably mounted to each of the legs, an extendible perimeter assembly of link members (20, 50) each including a plurality of pairs of link members (i.e., 51, 52; 20A, 20B) being pivotally connected together in a scissors configuration to form a plurality of sides of the shelter as so to be extendable from a first collapsed position retracted horizontally between pairs of legs to a second extended position extending horizontally between pairs of legs, each pair of link members having first (i.e., 52) and second (i.e., 51) link members. Rhee further teaches, in Fig. 7C, the extendible perimeter assembly at opposing sides (50) of the shelter having a pair of link members (A, B), each pair of link member (A or B) including the first link member (a) having an outer end pivotally connected to the slider member (32) at the upper end of the leg (10), and the second link member formed by two hinged parts (b and c) having an outer end (on outer side of the rod b) pivotally connected to an upper end of the respective leg (10), the second link member (b and c) having a dimension longer than dimension of the first link members (a) such that both inner ends of the second link members are connected at a position (F) extend above the upper ends of the legs to provide a raised portion at each opposing side (50) of the shelter to form a gabled configuration when the shelter is fully extended. In Fig. 8, Rhee further shows Further, the connections of the inner ends of link members extend above the upper ends of the legs, and a cover inherently disposed over the legs and the extendible perimeter assembly of the link members.

FIG. 7CResponse to Argument

2. Applicant's arguments, filed October 1, 2004, with respect to rejections under 35 USC 102(e) by Carter '533 have been fully considered and are persuasive. The rejection under 35 102(e) to Carter '533 has been withdrawn.

3. Applicant's argument with respect to rejections under 35 USC 102 (e) by Rhee '835 has been fully considered but it is not deemed to be persuasive.

In response to applicant's argument that the reference to Rhee fails to "both connected inner ends of said pairs of first and second link members extending above the upper ends of the pair of legs" as claimed, it is noted that, as show above EXHIBIT figure 7C and discussion set forth above rejection, Rhee is considered to show the shelter comprising “one side (50) of the shelter having a pair of link members (A, B), each link member (A or B) including a first link member (a) and the second link member (b and c) pivotally connected one to another, wherein the second link member is formed by considered rods (b and c), both second ends of the first link member (a) and second link member (b and c) are connected together at a point (F) which are considered “both said connected inner ends of said pairs of first and second link members extend above the upper ends of the pair of legs” as claimed. Notice, Applicant does not recite each link member being “a single piece” member. And, applicant only claims “both connected inner ends of said pairs of first and second link members extend above the upper ends of the legs”.

Therefore, whether or not the intermediate connection between the rods (c and b) is located bellow the upper ends of the legs” as argued by applicant does not differentiate the claimed invention over the reference to Rhee satisfying the claimed structural limitations. Further, as show in Fig. 8, the connections of the inner ends of link members extend above the upper ends of the legs. Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26 USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir. 1993). Therefore, the rejection stand ground.

ACTION IS FINAL

4. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new grounds of rejection. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See M.P.E.P. ' 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 C.F.R. ' 1.136(a).

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR RESPONSE TO THIS FINAL ACTION IS SET TO EXPIRE THREE MONTHS FROM THE DATE OF THIS ACTION. IN THE

Art Unit: 3637

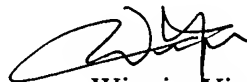

EVENT A FIRST RESPONSE IS FILED WITHIN TWO MONTHS OF THE MAILING DATE OF THIS FINAL ACTION AND THE ADVISORY ACTION IS NOT MAILED UNTIL AFTER THE END OF THE THREE-MONTH SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD, THEN THE SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD WILL EXPIRE ON THE DATE THE ADVISORY ACTION IS MAILED, AND ANY EXTENSION FEE PURSUANT TO 37 C.F.R. '1.136(a) WILL BE CALCULATED FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THE ADVISORY ACTION. IN NO EVENT WILL THE STATUTORY PERIOD FOR RESPONSE EXPIRE LATER THAN SIX MONTHS FROM THE DATE OF THIS FINAL ACTION.
